3	The second item we wish to cover	3	arguments. You know what they are. It's
4	today, once we conclude argument on the	4	that Telenor Mobile was in possession of
5	evidence offered by Storm, is to discuss on	5	Storm's charter. It knew from the 2002
6	the record the question of a hearing date	6	transactions that an authorization was 7	and any prehearing discovery.	7	needed for any transaction involving the 8	And with that summary of the state of	8	disposition of Kyivstar shares. Since the 9	play, I call on Storm and its distinguished	9	2004 shareholders' agreement was the same in
10	counsel to add anything that it wishes to	10	that respect, it's our position that Telenor
11	add concerning the affidavit of Wack or	11	Mobile knew or should have known that
12	other matters.	12	another authorization was needed.
13	Pieter?	13	Now, in response to that, Storm has
14	MR. VAN TOL: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.	14	claimed sorry, Telenor Mobile has claimed
15	With the tribunal's indulgence, what I	15	that Storm is essentially estopped from 16	would like to do is pick up on what I think	16	arguing that Mr. Nilov lacked authority or
17	you referred to as some loose ends from the	17	that Storm, through its actions, somehow
18	last hearing and then go to the affidavits.	18	ratified the 2004 shareholders' agreement.
19	But, of course, I am happy to deal with any	19	I will deal with each of those in 20	questions that coming along as they come up.	20	turn.
21	At the last hearing, we focused very	21	First, with regard to what we will 22	much on the issue of apparent authority, and	22	loosely call estoppel. I noted from the 23	the question of whether Telenor Mobile knew	23	tribunal's questions last time that you are
1 ~ 4	or should have known that there were	24	somewhat troubled by the notion that Storm
24	of should have known that there were		some what troubled by the notion that Storm

Page 6 Page 7 1 Proceedings 1 Proceedings 2 2 have seen so far, particularly the new should have known of the limitations, while 3 3 at the same time you queried whether Storm affidavits, that the main participants for 4 had the same information in its possession 4 Storm in 2004 were simply unaware that there 5 5 was a need for another authorization from and shouldn't it have known or been aware 6 the meeting of participants. No one has 6 that Mr. Nilov needed authority. 7 What I would like to do is reorient us 7 suggested that they knew and somehow didn't 8 8 on the law. The key prong of estoppel want to get one. 9 9 that's involved here is reasonable reliance, It looks like, from what we know, that 10 10 and that question only looks at the Mr. Khudyakov, and other people involved, knowledge of the party raising the estoppel simply didn't know until later that there 11 11 needed to be a meeting of participants. 12 argument, which is Telenor Mobile. 12 13 It's essentially the same question 13 That doesn't change the fact that such an that is raised by apparent authority. What 14 authorization was needed, as the courts have 14 15 did Telenor Mobile know? 15 found and as our expert, Mr. Maydanyk, has Now, estoppel theory adds another 16 shown in his legal opinion. 16 17 layer, which is: Was it reasonable for 17 I want to pause here and emphasize here why, though, Storm is even talking 18 Telenor Mobile to rely on Mr. Nilov's 18 about this evidence. Because our view has 19 apparent authority in light of what it knew? 19 20 And we submit that the answer is a no, for 20 been and still is that Sphere Drake does not 21 the reasons I have just articulated. 21 require a searching analysis of the merits So, really, Storm's knowledge for 22 of each party's argument on estoppel or 22 23 purposes of the legal analysis, is not 23 ratification, et cetera. All it requires by Storm is that Storm show there is some 24 relevant here. 24 evidence that no contact was formed. 25 Now, I think it's clear from what we 25 Page 8 Page 9 1 Proceedings 1 Proceedings relating to the December 22 order, that 2 So, I don't have to, today, show you 2 3 that Telenor Mobile's theory of estoppel is 3 that's not the case. Telenor Mobile has 4 wrong. I also don't have to show you today 4 gone back and introduced new evidence in 5 or later that their ratification theory is 5 connection with that proceeding. As far as 6 6 I'm aware, they can do the same with respect wrong. 7 7 What Sphere Drake requires me to do is to our case. They have submitted no expert 8 show that I have some evidence for saying 8 opinion saying that they are bound by the 9 Telenor Mobile's counterarguments are 9 record, and that's a pretty thin reed to 10 deficient. So long as I can do that, the 10 rely upon if you are going to say I'm going 11 issues of estoppel, ratification and 11 to ignore, basically, or ask the tribunal to 12 anything else we can think of, need to be disregard what's happened in Ukraine. 12 decided by a court. Now, I will turn briefly to 13 13 And I note that if Telenor Mobile is 14 ratification, because it's in many ways 14 15 arguing, again, how terribly unfair it all 15 related to estoppel and can be dealt with 16 is, well, they had the opportunity to go the 16 fairly quickly. 17 Ukraine courts. We have been over this, and 17 Telenor Mobile, as a party arguing for I haven't heard yet an articulation from ratification, has to show that Storm, first 18 18 19 Telenor Mobile other than we are not sure 19 of all, knew that Mr. Nilov lacked 20 Ukrainian courts are the best place to be. authority; and, two, that it failed to 20 And then at the last hearing Mr. Sills 21 21 repudiate the agreement in a timely manner. mentioned that Telenor Mobile could be bound Now, I take it from the last hearing 22 22 23 by the appellate record as it is in the that what Telenor Mobile is saying is that 23 24 24 the events of 2004, the amendment to the Ukraine. 25 Well, we have seen, from the goings on 25 charter and other events, show that there was ratification of the 2004 shareholders' agreement. But at the time of those events in 2004, Storm was not aware that Mr. Nilov had acted outside his authority. It was only after Alpha's purchase of the remaining shares in Storm through Alperin in the fall of 2004, that Alpha obtained all the records for Storm and realized something was amiss. As I understand it, the transaction went through sometime in the fall of 2004, and it wasn't during the due diligence period, but it was after all the records had been assembled that, sometime in 2005, likely early 2005, Alpha/Storm realized that Mr. Nilov had signed the 2004 agreement

24 25 without authority. And remember, it's not as if it's been from early 2005 until April 2006, when Storm first raises the issue of corporate governance. We have been arguing since March of 2005, as Mr. Sills has wanted to point out, that there are many issues about corporate governance relating to Kyivstar. Our representatives stopped attending corporate meetings. It's not as if Storm has pretended, since January 2004, that the shareholders' agreement is a good and extant agreement.

Proceedings

To the contrary, as soon as Alpha realized something was amiss, it started attacking the corporate governance issues any way it could. And this ultra virus argument is just the last, I hope, in a series of attacks on the same issues.

That's all I want to say on apparent authority. And I am about to move on to the standard, the Sphere Drake cases, that Mr. Jentes raised last time.

If the tribunal has any questions now on apparent authority, I am happy to take them; if not, I will move on to the legal standard.

CHAIRMAN FEINBERG: Go ahead. MR. VAN TOL: Okay. At the last hearing, Mr. Sills brought up the case called Shaw in the Second Circuit. And I believe this has been distinguished already, but I just want to make sure we nail this.

Proceedings

Shaw does not go to the same issue that is before the tribunal or is involved in this case. It did not go to the question of whether a contract was formed. It went to the issue of whether. I believe it was attorneys' fees, or whether a party was entitled to attorneys' fees, was an arbitrable issues.

Telenor Mobile has not cited any case and I am unaware of any case, where the courts have said if you have an arbitration agreement, and you cite the Uncitral rules, and you have a severability provision, and a party like Storm argues that there is no contract, that an arbitration tribunal may find that there is a separate agreement to arbitrate, and it may go ahead and decide the issue of contract formation. There is no authority that has been given to you for that proposition. Shaw doesn't stand for it and Sphere Drake in the Seventh Circuit actually supports the Sphere Drake in the Second Circuit case, which I thought we had all agreed was the standard. And that standard is: Where a party says no contact was formed, and it comes up with some evidence to back that up, the issue of contract formation is decided by someone other a tribunal.

Now, moving on to some of the things that were raised in the affidavits. One point quickly, and I want to make sure this came through in the David Wack affidavit, at the last hearing, I believe it was Exhibit K to the -- and I apologize for mispronouncing his name -- to the Lykke affidavit, there was a series of e-mails from Mr. Wack that talked about whether or not Mr. Nilov could sign the agreement himself or whether there needed to be a signature for a chief accountant at Storm.

Telenor Mobile has tried to make a lot of those e-mails, even suggesting that Mr. Wack was saying there that Mr. Nilov had authority for all time to bind Storm to any agreement, the 2002 voting agreement and the 2004 shareholders' agreement. Mr. Wack has told in his affidavit that he had a much

Page 14 Page 15 1 Proceedings 1 Proceedings 2 2 more limited purpose in his e-mails, which and, in 2004, he was not imparting Ukrainian 3 was simply to tell Telenor Mobile that it 3 law advice to Mr. Hudyakov. It appears that 4 was his understanding that Mr. Nilov could 4 Storm either did not have separate Ukrainian 5 5 counsel in 2004, or is relying on sign as the general director. Now, what that obviously assumes is 6 Mr. Jamack, as the representative of the 6 7 that Mr. Nilov has authority to act and 7 Kyivstar, to protect its interests on 8 that, in turn, derives from the meeting of 8 Ukrainian law. As I said earlier, this 9 9 participants. looks like a mistake; that's what ultra 10 10 If you look at the e-mail chain in virus cases are about. Exhibit K, this is from August of 2002. Now, just quickly, I would like to 11 11 12 Clearly, between August 2002 and 12 point out a few more things from the Wack 13 October 2002, someone advised the parties 13 affidavit and then move on briefly to the that there needed to be meeting of other affidavits with the understanding that 14 14 15 participants because there was one to give 15 the tribunal will rule on whether or not it's going to accept those affidavits, given Mr. Nilov authority. 16 16 17 And it's our understanding that, for 17 that the original ruling was for us to 18 the 2002 transaction, Storm had separate 18 submit something from Mr. Wack. In the Wack affidavit, Mr. Wack 19 Ukrainian counsel that did not participate 19 20 in the 2004 transaction. Mr. Wack and 20 recounts for the tribunal that the 21 Mr. Hudyakov go to great pains to tell the understanding of the parties in 2002 was 21 tribunal that Mr. Wack is not a Ukrainian that there -- there were conditions 22 22 23 law expert, he's a transactional lawyer. 23 precedent to moving forward with the 24 Any advice he's giving is merely passing on 24 shareholders agreement, namely that the 25 his understanding from Ukrainian counsel 25 Omega transaction go through. I think that Page 17 Page 16 1 Proceedings 1 Proceedings 2 is common ground now based on the Ekhougen 2 Mobile. In fact, they used Mr. Hudyakov as 3 testimony. He also testified that, looking 3 their intermediary to talk to Telenor 4 at the changes to the termination 4 Mobile. And what they wanted those 5 provisions, that those were material and 5 provisions for was for security to make sure 6 substantial changes. 6 that Telenor Mobile abided by its 7 7 And as I said a moment ago, when he obligations. 8 was contacted by Mr. Khudyakov in January of 8 Now, moving on, we also submitted the 9 2004, what he was giving advice on was the 9 affidavit from Mr. Kosogov, who I think 10 provisions of the material breach amendment. 10 makes it plain that when he submitted the 11 He was not opining on Ukrainian law. And it 11 Certificate of Incumbency in January of appears that the need for another 2004, at the request of Telenor Mobile, the 12 12 authorization for the meeting of one thing he was not saying is that there 13 13 14 participants somehow slipped through the 14 was a meeting of participants in either 15 cracks. 15 December 2003 or January 2004. 16 Now, moving on to what Mr. Hudyakov 16 He has no information that there was says, I think he fills in nicely a question 17 17 such a meeting, which is consistent with that was outstanding from the last hearing, 18 18 what Mr. Wack says, with what Mr. Klymenko 19 which is: Why is it that Storm wanted these 19 has said, with what every witness we ever 20 changes to the breach, the material breach 20 has talked to has said. 2.1 provisions? 21 What Mr. Kosogov was doing with the 22 Certificate of Incumbency was relying on his 2.2 And he tells you in plain terms that 23 the Ukrainian partners of Storm at that time 23 knowledge of a general director's overall 24 did not have a good relationship with 24 ability to act. 25 Telenor Mobile. They didn't trust Telenor 25 Moving on, we have the affidavit from

That appears at 2 Circuit decision in Sphere Drake, which lines 15 through 18. 3 3 makes it clear that parties can opt out of A little while later in the hearing 4 4 the usual rule that these matters are to be 5 5 Mr. Jentes said, what, exactly, do you mean, determined in court and expressly provide 6 we have jurisdiction? 6 for determination before an arbitration 7 And Mr. Van Tol responded as follows: 7 tribunal and that is expressly what they did 8 it's within your power under the Uncitral 8 here. It's what they did by adopting the 9 9 rules. You do have the power to determine Uncitral rules in their entirety. They are 10 10 incorporated by reference into this contract whether or not this case should go forward; 11 in other words, you have the power to as surely as if they had been set out word 11 12 determine whether or not there was a 12 for word. 13 13 contract. I think this was gone into at great length last time. I don't think there can 14 Again, at pages 266 and 267, Mr. Van 14 Tol said: This clause, the Uncitral clause, 15 15 be any serious argument that this tribunal 16 does not prohibit Telenor Mobile from 16 has the jurisdiction to determine its own jurisdiction. 17 proceeding, going to the Ukrainian court. 17 18 It says you may determine your jurisdiction. 18 As to the question of apparent 19 That's what Sphere Drake says. That 19 authority that has been raised, the 20 was Storm's position at the last hearing. 20 presentation that was made, in effect, 21 They were right then; they are wrong now. stands the doctrine of apparent authority on 21 The Uncitral clause is clear. The 22 its head. The whole reason for the doctrine 22 23 contract is clear. I had extended colloquy 23 of apparent authority under New York law, 24 with Mr. Jentes at the last hearing 24 which, after all, governs here, is that one 25 concerning Judge Easterbrook's Seventh 25 party doesn't act at its peril in dealing Page 24 Page 25 1 Proceedings 1 Proceedings with a corporation. If a corporation 2 When you look at the words of the e-mail he 2 3 creates all the indicia of authority, 3 sent, it's true he was addressing the 4 whether or not it's followed its internal 4 question of do we need two signatures or one 5 procedures becomes irrelevant. 5 signature, because it's common, as I 6 Now, the affidavits -- and there is no 6 understand it, in east European legal 7 7 particular burden on a party that has been systems for certain contracts to require two 8 assured, both formally and informally, that 8 signatures. But he didn't say one signature 9 there is due authorization and there is 9 is enough. He said the only officer is 10 authority, to sort of drill down and 10 Nilov. Nilov can act without a power of 11 challenge that. The test is actual 11 attorney. 12 authority. 12 Now, I don't understand how you could 13 twist words, can act without a power of 13 So, looking at these affidavits that 14 have been submitted, we could have submitted 14 attorney, into saying only one signature is 15 these affidavits, because they actually lend 15 required. I know what the words say. I 16 substantial support to Telenor's case. 16 understand now why he's trying to run away 17 Mr. Wack doesn't really address the 17 from them, but I think the document speaks question of actual or apparent authority; in 18 18 for itself. 19 effect, he's running away from his own 19 The only other point he makes is to 20 transaction saying he had very limited 20 weakly endorse this claim that was floated at the last hearing that the 2004 2.1 involvement. 21 shareholders' agreement was in some sense an 22 I will note that the claim now that he 22 23 didn't mean to say that Mr. Nilov could act 23 agreement to agree. It's not. It was 24 without a power of attorney, that it was in 24 negotiated, it was annexed to the voting 25 some other context, just doesn't ring true. 25 agreement, and the voting agreement has an

Page 26 Page 27 1 Proceedings 1 Proceedings 2 2 automatic three-day trigger. contract to be signed. It's a little 3 3 Once Storm, that is Alpha, succeeds in unclear how they could have had this 4 buying the Omega shares, one it succeeds in 4 materiality argument that they have invented 5 5 in mind, when they claim now not to be aware getting the blocking position that Telenor agreed it could have by getting over the 6 in 2002 that they had agreed to sign the 6 7 40 percent limit, there would be an 7 shareholders' agreement. 8 8 automatic obligation to negotiate -- not And on that point, with respect to 9 9 limit, excuse me, to sign the new this Maydanyk legal opinion, I think it's 10 10 described as, which I think is really shareholders' agreement. 11 It is true that there were provisions nothing more than an unauthorized reply 11 12 inserted at the request of Storm on brief. I understand that he appeared only this morning in a court in Karkov, which is a provincial city in Ukraine, where yet another one of these assaults in the Ukrainian courts is being mounted, and he appeared on behalf of Storm. In that regard, I would like to I would like to hand to the panel and, of course, to Mr. Van Tol, copies of powers of attorney that have been granted to the Ilyashev firm, copies of a print of the Ilyashev and Partners Web site, and a power of attorney granted by Storm to the Ilyashev firm, to a partner of the Ilyashev firm, a Mr. Zinchenko, who also appears on the Web site.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	Proceedings Now, when I look at Mr. Ilyashev's affidavit, I'm struck by what wasn't argued in this Alperin case. There is an elaborate argument about how the contract should have been in Ukrainian and should have been filed, which I think is a matter of irrelevance, because New York law governs. And I think at the last hearing there was an extensive discussion about the Indosuez case. Indosuez, which is a New York Court of Appeals case, is conclusive that New York law and not foreign law governs on the question of apparent authority when the parties have elected New York law. Now, Mr. Ilyashev says he argued that the shareholders' agreement was a sham deed. That seems to be a very envious argument that it's, as a matter of Ukrainian law, an amendment to the charter and, again, has to be in Ukrainian and has to be filed. Then he says, Mr. Nilov required an express
